Profile

I am a proactive, versatile, ambitious and dedicated young man with a huge passion for football, taking a huge interest in Data Analysis and Analytics and Football.

Currently in the field of football, I have been writing articles for my blogs and also for newspapers and I collaborate with football consultant Proscout, producing scouting reports.

I consider that I have good analytical skills, problem solving, support, decision making, project management and teamwork.

I am looking for an opportunity in the world of football and I believe that this position can be the perfect fit for both sides.
